But most of all is such a paper needed for the young, the rising generation, who are growing up in igno rance of religious teachings. We have always regretted the suspension of the Alaula, or Dayspring, tablished by Dr. Gullek, and which was designed to teach the young people in Sabbath schools and elsewhere. So long as it was well conducted it doubtless accomplished some good. We should like to see a paper of its class revived. The Lahui Hacoil will doubtless serve in part to fill the gap, and we wish it success.

In the course of dobate on estimates for appropria tions for the Federal Council, Herr Joerg, one of the Bavarian Deputies and member of the Cierical party, made a bitter attack on Bismarck's foreign policy. He remarked that in consequence of Russia holding at Intervention in Spain He wished to know whather the committee of the Federal Council, which, accord ing to the Constitution, asked for the consideration Bismarck replied that all important diplomatic desmet whenever summoned by the President. Nothing was concealed from the Government. He emphatically repelled the insinuation that the Federal representatives did not adequately protect therights of the various States, There had never been any idea of intervention in the affairs of Spain. When apprised of the murder of Schmidt, he said to himself, such a thing would not have happened to the British, American or French citizens. He remembered the humilla. tions imposed on the Germans, and considered that the time had arrived to avenge such wrongs. The only way of helping Spain was to recognise those elenents in the country which were disposed to restore public order. Russia was less affected by Spanish concerns. Germany has respected Russia as a power with which Germany had lived in intimate friendship for a century. If (continued Bismarck) your darts are darted against us, that friendship they will miss. Their aim can equally bear charge of flasco. Referring to the assertion of Herr Joerg that Kullman was a mad man, Bismarck replied that he was not a mad man. "You don't mean to have anything in common with Kullman; that I comprehend; but he clings tightly to your coat-tails. I asked Kullman why bewished to kill me. He answered, "On account of the church laws, and because you injured my party." I asked him which party, and he replied, "the centre of Ultramontane." [Great tumplt in the Chambers.] You may thrust Kullman away ; he severtheless belongs to you. [Here the House burst into cheers which were loud and long, with continued appleuse, and subdued cries of "Pfeni, Pfeni" were heard from Ultramontane benches].

The President declared these exclamations unpar "I have no right to censure such exclamations. 'Pfeui' is an expression of disgust and contempt. I am not stranger to these feelings, but hope I am too polite to so express them here." Windhorst, Ultramontane, said that his speech windorst, Oltramontans, said that his speech from the balcony on Kissengeen, after Kullman's at-tempt to assassinate Bismarck, gave the signal for the attack on the Centre. It was wrong to incite one party against another. They were drifting, without that, toward war.
